

Underground

Oh see it is raining. The centipede, earthworm and snail have come out from their homes underground. I must be careful how I walk. I must not step on them. They are my friends.

Mummy there's a cockroach in the kitchen!
Please don't kill it, just let it go underground where it lives.

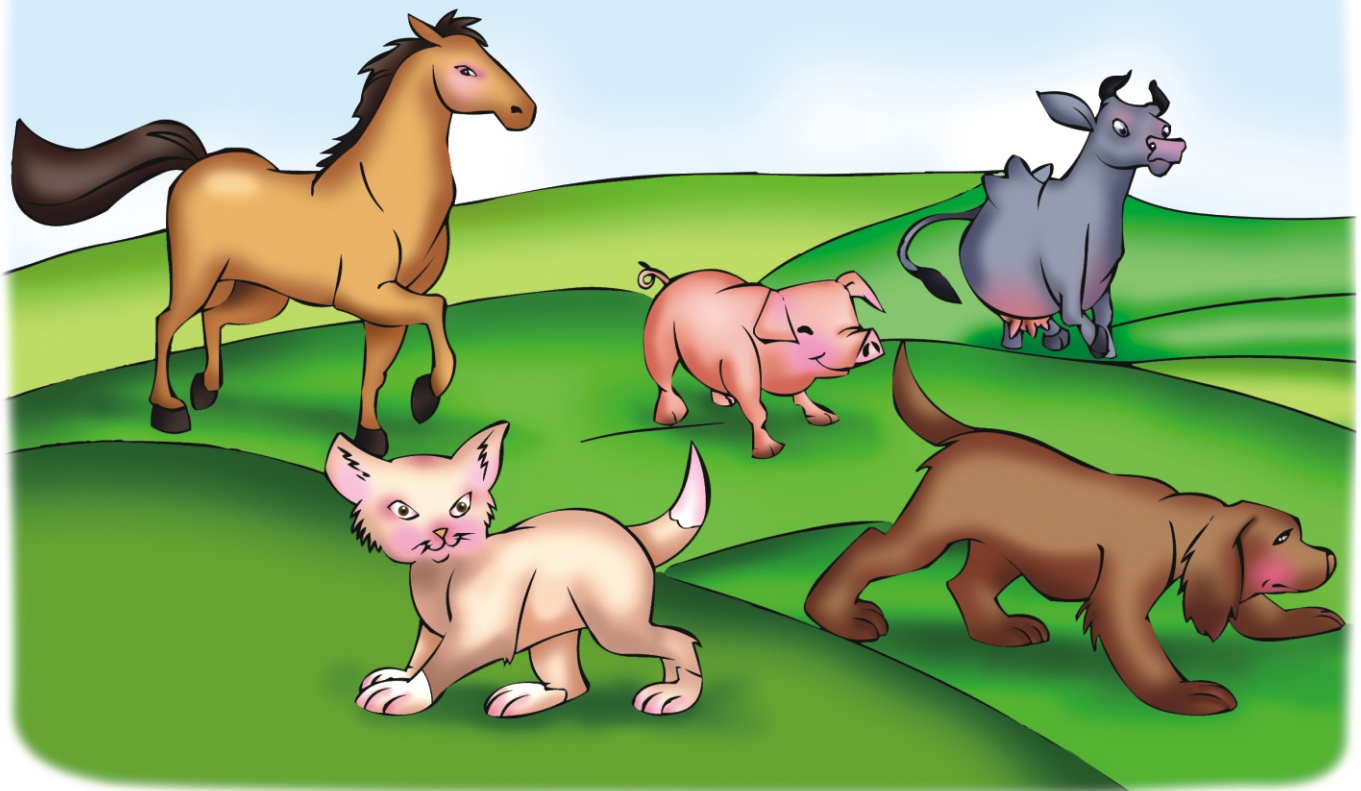

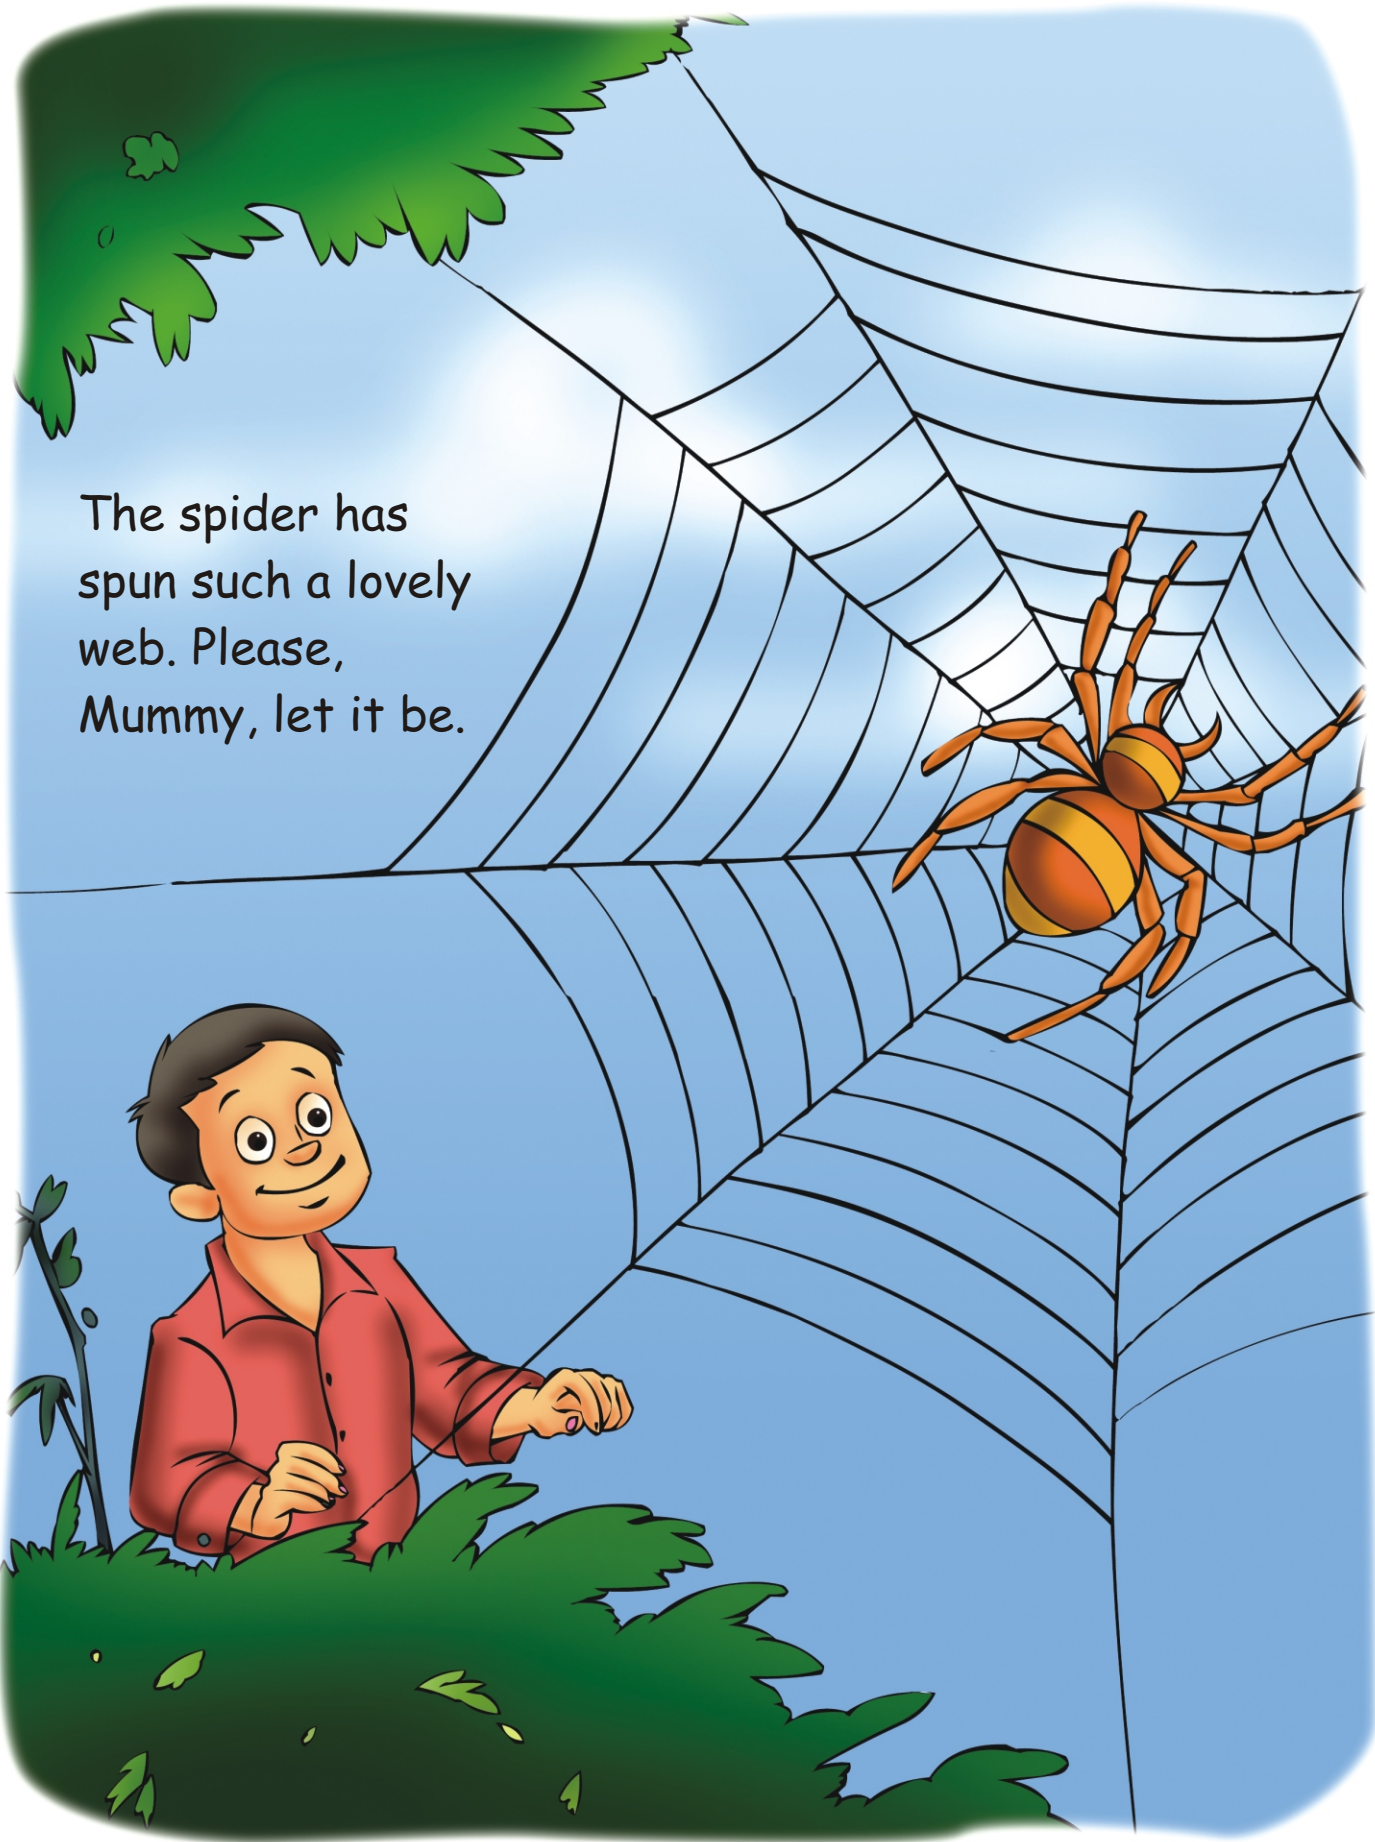

The hardworking ants have built such a big anthill.
It is their home so we must not break it.

On The Ground

There is doggy, there is kitten, and they are running around. The horse, the cow and many more animals live on top of the ground. I see many of them everyday.

A cartoon illustration of a young boy with dark hair and a red shirt, looking up at a large, intricate spider web. The web is made of concentric circles and radial lines, with a large orange and yellow striped spider sitting on it. The background is a light blue sky. The boy is standing behind a green bush in the bottom left corner. The spider web is attached to a green leafy branch in the top left corner.

The spider has spun such a lovely
web. Please,
Mummy, let it be.

In The Air

Butterflies are all around me; I can see
their lovely wings.
I will not catch them -
I will let them be.

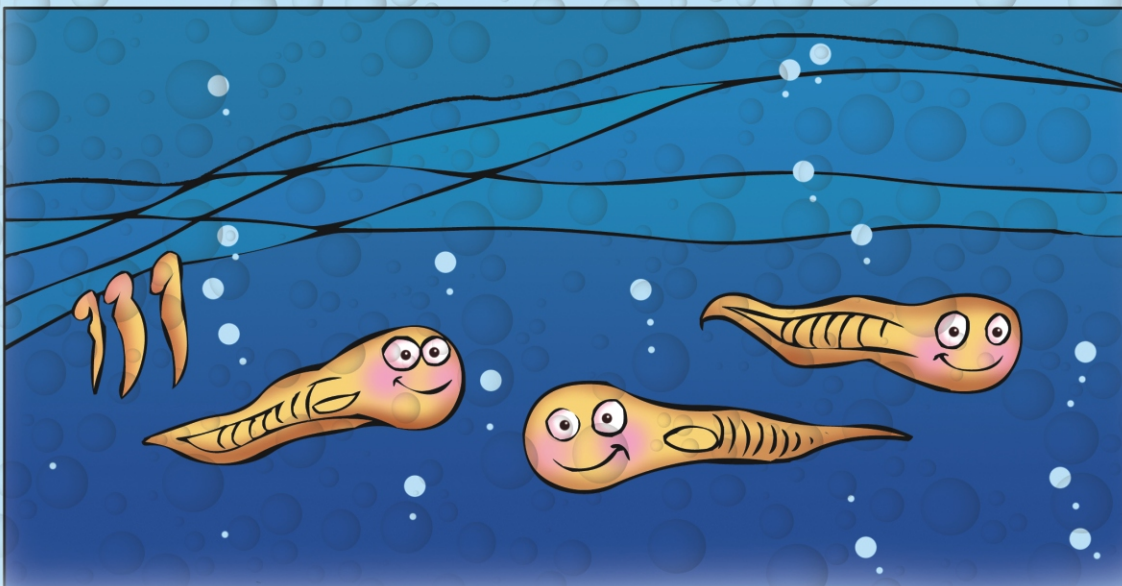

Bees are busy buzzing,
they are flying through the air, I think they have a lot of work today.

In The Water

The fishes are swimming so happily, let's not catch them. They should feel safe in their homes. There are so many shellfishes with them.

Tadpoles Tadpoles are frog babies. They are born in the water, I love to see them swimming.

My Friends Are Everywhere

I have many friends
Some fly in the sky,
They fly so very high.
Some jump, some walk,
Some can even talk.

I have many friends,
Some creep, some dig deep,
Some slither, some even crawl,
Some even sleep on the wall

I have many friends
Some are big, some are small.
I really love them all!
