

We Must Never Fight

Sometimes we fight about silly things. While we fight we say terrible things to each other.

After the fight we feel bad about all the things we have said. After the fight our friends may not talk to us. So when the fight is over we feel very bad. Let us not fight.

The Horse And the Cow

Long, long ago, there were a horse and a cow.
They ran around freely and happily.

One day that horse and the cow fought over the green grass that they both ate. The horse did not want to share his grass and fields with the cow. He thought that he was better than the cow and he told her so. The cow got angry and did not talk to the horse.

The horse wanted to punish the cow. He did not want the cow to run around free. So he thought of a plan.

The horse went to a man. He asked the man, "Have you tasted cow's milk?"

"No", said the man, "is it good?"

"It is very good!" said the horse. "It is very good indeed!"

"How do I get cow's milk?" asked the man.

The horse pointed to the cow in the field. "If you catch her, she can give you the milk", he said.

The man ran after the cow, but the cow ran faster. The man could not catch the cow.

"Climb onto my back," said the horse.
"I am faster than the cow. I can catch her!" The man climbed onto the back of the horse and they caught the cow.

Then the man thought, "I will keep the cow for milk, and I will also keep the horse. He is a very fast runner"

So both the cow and the horse got caught just because they fought over the green grass in the fields.
